

Notice of Asiana Airlines' Relocation to ICN T2

We are pleased to confirm a key operational update that will significantly simplify travel and expand network options for your clients connecting through Seoul Incheon (ICN).

Effective January 14, 2026, Asiana Airlines (OZ) will officially relocate all operations to Incheon Airport Terminal 2 (T2), joining Korean Air (KE).

Impact: Seamless Transfers & Expanded Network

This consolidation into Terminal 2 provides two major benefits for passengers flying our combined itineraries:

Core Benefit	Detail	Value to KE Passengers
Seamless T2 Transfer	Both KE and OZ flights will operate exclusively from T2.	Eliminates Terminal Change: Passengers arriving on KE from the Americas can transfer directly within T2 to their onward OZ flight to Asia.
Expanded Asia Options	KE's and OZ's Asia networks are now accessible from one terminal.	Wider Selection: Offers the largest combined array of flight times and destinations for the Korea ↔ Asia segment.

This means that for the popular Americas (KE) ↔ Korea ↔ Asia (OZ/KE) itineraries, you can now offer the combined strength of both carriers' Asia routes with the fastest, most convenient T2-to-T2 connection guaranteed.

Network Differentiation Highlight: Exclusive Asia Destinations

The T2 consolidation is crucial for enhancing route options to China and Japan. Asiana Airlines offers unique access to several key regional cities not served by Korean Air, which your clients can now seamlessly access via a T2 connection:

Region	OZ-Exclusive Destinations (Korea Departure)*
China	Chengdu(TFU), Chongqing(CKG): Summer Schedule Only
	Changchun(CGQ), Harbin(HRB), Yancheng (YNZ)
Japan	Miyazaki (KMI), Sendai (SDJ)

Note: Flight schedules and specific routes are subject to change based on regulatory approval and demand. Please verify the latest schedule in your GDS.
